

Location of military markings and codes on fuselage and empennage of front-line aircraft. Positioning of the Hakenkreuz on the rudder was purely diagrammatic, the main implication being that the distance from the mid-point of the marking to the tip of the fin/rudder was not to exceed two metres.